Willing, Waiting and Wanting

Willing to wait for God’s hand to move.
Willing to see what God wants to prove.
Willing to wait for paths that are straight.
Willing to wait—though it seems too late.

Waiting is more than standing aside.
Waiting is more, it’s “In Him abide.”
Waiting is knowing God’s peace in the storm.
Waiting is rising far over the norm.

Wanting for nothing-- but more of Himself.
Wanting to please Him, stay off the shelf.
Wanting to share Him with those who pass by.
Wanting a vision-- as seen by His eye.

© By Ralph E. McIntosh
October 24, 2003
Written in Stoke-on-Trent